Helping Children, Ending Poverty, and Preventing Blindness

Conference on Child Rights & Sight at Yale University, October 2, 2010

Dear Friends:

On behalf of Distressed Children & Infants (DCI) International, we cordially invite you, your family, and friends to join our 3rd Annual Conference on Child Rights & Sight on Saturday, October 2, 2010 at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut. The goal of this conference is to raise awareness of children's rights and sight in local, national, and international communities.

The conference will feature some of the leading human rights experts who will speak about issues of poverty and methods of extracting distressed children from the dynamic cycle of poverty. By having a forum for researchers, campaigners and policy makers to come together, we can raise awareness of children's rights and make the gravity of the problems faced by underprivileged children more visible while finding new and creative ways every one of us can get involved to help these needy and often forgotten children.

Please join us for a day full of enlightening and educational talks on children's rights, poverty alleviation, blindness prevention and global health issues, ending with an evening of reception and social networking.

This event is open to all; however, pre-registration is required, as our seating capacity is limited. Please mark your calendar and register as soon as possible. See the attached flyer for further information. If you have any questions about the conference please do not hesitate to contact us at dci@distressedchildren.org

Distressed Children & Infants (DCI) International is a US-based 501(c)(3) nonprofit child rights organization. The mission of DCI is to help underprivileged children worldwide lift themselves out of poverty by providing them with basic life necessities, education, health care, and family support. Currently we are working in Bangladesh and India helping underprivileged children. We have an excellent volunteer program for U. S. youths which not only develops children's empathy for others, but also increases their knowledge of other cultures and teaches them new skills.
